Confidently Move Your Senior Living Community Forward
A Systematic Approach to Creating a Bright Future

In the midst of never-before-imagined circumstances, senior living communities have an opportunity to set a positive course for their next normal. Embracing new ways to live, connect and care, we can reimagine what is possible for our communities.

By rising to meet the challenges of these moments, senior living communities can confidently evolve to enable the safety and wellness of residents and staff while addressing the pressures and interruptions that unexpected circumstances bring. At Sodexo, we provide a comprehensive approach and complete range of services to support you as your community transforms to meet a new set of expectations.

Whether you’re updating your disinfection programs, creating new dining formats, implementing technologies for social distancing, navigating supply chain disruptions or working to reassure your residents and their families – we partner with you to reinvent experiences that will elevate and sustain thriving communities now and for the future.

Leveraging our deep experience in senior living around the world, we build passionate and caring teams who demonstrate commitment and bring an expanse of resources to support your community’s goals. With solutions designed to fit your local needs, while leveraging expert-backed tools and technologies, we can deliver best-in-class experiences that strengthen your reputation and build confidence within your community.

“The challenge for [our] organization was bringing services to residents’ apartments, including activities and meals. People are very much about entertainment and having a rich life”

GROUP CHIEF MARKETING OFFICER
Leading Independent Living community in Europe
Sodexo is committed to making a positive impact. Our approach to helping residents stay healthy, engaged and supported starts with understanding their everyday journeys, experiences and the social and environmental challenges they encounter in the community.

This is why we map out each step of their daily routines and create solutions to address each need. Using this people-centered philosophy, we build a custom plan to adapt the procedures and services to your unique needs.

Ensuring Healthy, Safe & Welcoming Environments

Together, we can build a more resilient team that stays focused on the heart of senior living communities: the residents.

According to the CDC, 1 to 3 million serious infections occur in long-term care environments each year. The steps you take to safeguard both your residents and staff should be more than effective – they should help relieve stress and empower everyone who lives and works in your community. And with dedicated training for employees, robust infection control methods, such as preventative disinfection cleaning, contactless services and more, we help assure your residents and staff that your entire community is working as one team to safeguard their health and wellbeing.

With a systematic approach, our proprietary cleaning measures are reviewed and approved by a multidisciplinary team of experts on the Sodexo Medical Advisory Council. Together, the Council advises on clinically informed measures to help communities adopt safe, clear processes that ensure compliance with all local regulations. Infection prevention protocols rooted in microbiology reduce acquired infections by up to 50%.

Our proprietary approach leverages the use of hospital-grade disinfection chemicals, proper PPE and protocols, combined with pulsed UV technology, to provide measurable results. Our award-winning site management system allows us to monitor, inspect and analyze our operations within your community for optimal visibility and transparency.

Sodexo uses a data-driven, consultative approach to help meet the specific needs of the communities we partner with.
We’re a team dedicated to the spirit of rising to the challenge, evolving our work to help you achieve your goals and exceed expectations.

As we begin to build your customized plan, your Sodexo team will work with you to review your data to identify opportunities and conduct a risk assessment. Then, we will define critical activities that will prepare your community to successfully protect the health and wellbeing of your residents, visitors, and staff now and for years to come.

Your Sodexo partnership ensures your ability to continually elevate senior living experiences with world-class dining and hospitality, and other services that deliver enhanced performance and peace of mind.
